

The CAHCRC is pleased to offer its translation of Faiths of Turkistan into the Kazakh language. The book covers the history of various religious beliefs and practices in Central Asia, including Zoroastrianism, Judaism, Buddhism, Christianity and Islam. It was originally written in Russian by a Kirgiz scholar, Anara Tabishalieva, who has since worked on UNESCO's six vol. project, "History of Civilizations of Central Asia." Faiths of Turkistan was published in the Almaty-Bishkek area by Central Asian Foundation in 1992. CAHCRC has prepared this important work by a national Kirgiz scholar for a Kazakh audience. It is available in bookstores in Kazakhstan or by contacting us directly (cahcrc@ara-cahcrc.com).
